ACCUSED IN EMPIRE BROKERAGE CO. CASE IS CALLED TO STAND

Former Bookkeeper Says He Received $5 Per Day From Investment Firm--Entered Auto Business on Borrowed Money and Made $8,000 Profit, He Testifies.

With King M. Brumfiel, facing charges of embezzlement before the common pleas court at Lisbon in connection with the collapse of the Empire Investment company, still on the witness stand late Monday afternoon, in indications were that the case would not go before the jury before late Tuesday afternoon or early Wednesday morning.

In all probability Brumfiel will be the last witness called to the stand, it was stated Monday. After he is dismissed it will require at least four or five hours to hear final arguments on both sides while an additional half hour will elapse in charging the jury.

The hearing was resumed at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning after adjournment Friday afternoon. Brumfiel was called again to the witness stand. After a few questions from his counsel, he was turned over to Attorney Jason H. Brookes for cross examination.

Earned Money, Testifies

Money for expensive gifts was all earned in the automobile business, Brumfiel stated Monday. He told the court that he entered the automobile business with $800 borrowed from Feustel. Profits from this business reached $8,000, Brumfiel said. After his arrest he sold out to Peter Mullen for $800. This money, he said, was given to his wife and used to secure bond for his release.

Mrs. James McGarry, this city, went on his bond, Brumfiel stated. Brumfiel admitted that James and John McGarry went to his home at 2 o'clock in the morning, awakened him from his sleep and spirited him away in an automobile. He stated that he took a train for Cleveland but denied that he was trying to escape.

Brumfiel told the court that he was paid $5 a day for his services as bookkeeper for the Empire Investment company. So far as he knew, he testified, there had never been an audit of the company's accounts while he was bookkeeper. When asked if some of the directors of the company did not play the boards, Brumfiel remained silent.

When asked how much money the concern handled between March, 1918 and May 1 of the same year when the company suspended, Brumfiel replied that he did not know.

"Would it surprise you," Attorney Brookes asked, "to know that the company handled over $311,500 through the Citizens National bank?"

"It might have," was the reply. Questioned concerning his financial transactions Brumfiel told the court of purchasing $1,000 worth of Empire stock for his wife, a bulldog that cost $30, a sealskin coat costing $295, a lavaliere for $235, one diamond ring for $275, and another for $700.

The last ring, he said, he retained for himself. The diamonds were sold after he was placed in jail he said. He also purchased a piano costing $625 and a Victrola at $347. The money for all these purchases he said, was made in the automobile business.

PROBERS LEAVE CITY

Labor Leaders Will Press Suits Against Ban on Meetings.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 13.—The fourth week of the steel strike in the immediate Pittsburgh district started today with practically no change in operating conditions over last week. Even though many of the plants had small forces, all resumed work.

Following the visit of five members of the senate committee on education and labor the strikers' leaders were preparing today to press their suits to lift the ban on strikers' meetings. Attorney W. R. Rubin of the strikers' committee also intimated that actions might be taken against activities of the state police.

The senate probers returned to Washington convinced that Americanization of the foreign element would go a long way toward allaying the industrial unrest. During the hearings here the investigators frequently expressed amazement and concern over the high proportion of unassimilated aliens among the workers. Senator Walsh suggested that there should be a law compelling immigrants to learn English within five years under penalty of law.

Whether the senators will return here to continue the hearings is uncertain. Chairman Kenyon said the question would be determined in Washington this week.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 13.—The fourth week of the steel strike dawned here with both sides confident of success in the struggle.

Mill operators plan on operating several blast and open hearth furnaces today and have started the fires. Although three blast furnaces and several open hearth furnaces were working Saturday, little or no steel was produced, according to reports in labor circles.

The strike leaders declare this week to be the crucial period of the strike. "If we can keep the men away from the mills, and I believe we can, we will win the strike sure," one union official stated today.

A little disturbance was reported at Struthers Sunday when two men were cut and beaten up, authorities say, by strikers. Thirteen arrests were made on suspicion of charges.

All the mills were heavily picketed today.

As a whole the district is very or

LISBON CROWD CHEERS BRYAN

William Jennings Bryan made an address Sunday afternoon at the Lisbon opera house and the building was packed with people anxious to hear the Nebraskan. Mr. Bryan's sole argument was on the temperance question, especially the wet issues to be voted upon in November. He went into details in discussing the propositions, told of how the country was being benefited by the abolition of drink, and then gave instructions as to how to mark the ballot. The only danger, he stated, was through possible errors at the polls, as the language of the amendments was mystifying. There will be two ballots, one containing the laws initiated by the wets. It will be the shorter ballot. The other is the referendum ballot, in which the wets are attempting to set aside the ratification of the national prohibition amendment and also the laws passed for the enforcement of the prohibition laws in Ohio. This referendum ballot is more than twice as long as the initiative.

"Take this rule," said Mr. Bryan. "The word yes is longer than the word no. Vote the long word to the long ballot and the short word to the short ballot. Any one can remember that. That will defeat the laws initiated by the saloon crowd and ratify the laws passed by the temperance members of the last legislature. Make that your slogan, the short word on the short ballot and the long word on the long ballot."

LISBON HIGH TEAM WINS FIRST GAME

Lisbon's high school football team won its first victory Saturday when it defeated the Ravenna high school team 20-0 at Ravenna. The local boys completely outclassed their opponents and played a fast, snappy game in spite of the mud. The Lisbon team has been trained by Rev. P. W. Macauley of the Presbyterian church. The material was practically all green when he took hold of the squad, and it took several games to get them going.

Woman Critically Ill. Word was received in Lisbon Sunday night that Mrs. Terrence Burns of Cleveland, formerly of this place, was critically ill. Her mother, E. P. Dennis, and brother, Arthur Dennis, left at midnight in an auto for Cleveland.

BUSY YEAR AHEAD FOR COUNTY AUDITOR

Charles E. Hamilton, who assumes the duties of county auditor next Monday, has a busy year ahead of him, for in addition to his regular work as auditor it is almost certain that there will be a reappraisal of all the real estate of the county the coming year. This will require a lot of detail work and necessitate the hiring of a number of extra clerks, as the real estate duplicate will have to be made over, new values being placed upon every separate piece of farm land and lot or part of lot in the towns and cities.

Mr. Hamilton's chief deputy will be Elmer Walker of Damascus, but his other appointees have not been announced.

TWO CASES HEARD BY PROBATE COURT

In the estate of Louisa A. Desellum, late of Lisbon, Lorenzo Desellum has been appointed administratrix, giving bond in the sum of $1,000. W. A. Hill, N. H. Ramsey and W. M. Morgan were appointed appraisers of the estate.

Elmer F. Stitt has been appointed executor of the will of the late Samuel Stitt of Leetonia. No bond was required. The following appraisers were appointed: C. W. Lodge, H. D. Weaver and G. J. Weidmayer.

PRICE OF HAIR CUT BOOSTED IN LISBON

Lisbon barbers Monday increased the price of hair cutting to 50 cents. No change was made in the price of shaving which remains at 20 cents. The tonsorial artists complain that so many people use safety razors that the receipts have been falling off and the increase in price was necessary to take care of the overhead expense.

KILLING FROST HITS LISBON DISTRICT

LISBON CROWD CHEERS BRYAN

William Jennings Bryan made an address Sunday afternoon at the Lisbon opera house and the building was packed with people anxious to hear the Nebraskan. Mr. Bryan's sole argument was on the temperance question, especially the wet issues to be voted upon in November. He went into details in discussing the propositions, told of how the country was being benefited by the abolition of drink, and then gave instructions as to how to mark the ballot. The only danger, he stated, was through possible errors at the polls, as the language of the amendments was mystifying. There will be two ballots, one containing the laws initiated by the wet, and the other the referendum ballot, in which the voters are attempting to get outside the ratification of the national prohibition amendment and also the laws passed for the enforcement of the prohibition laws in Ohio. This referendum ballot is more than twice as long as the initiative.

"Take this rule," said Mr. Bryan. "The word yes is longer than the word no. Vote the long word to the long ballot and the short word to the short ballot. Any one can remember that. That will defeat the laws initiated by the saloon crowd and ratify the laws passed by the temperance members of the last legislature. Make that your slogan, the short word on the short ballot and the long word on the long ballot."

The material was practically all green when he took hold of the squad, and it took several games to get them going.

Mr. Hamilton's chief deputy will be Elmer Walker of Damascus, but his other appointees have not been announced.

HIGH GRIDDERS IN THE GAME

For over half an hour the Wellsville and Union high school football teams struggled in a sea of mud, playing to a tie score, Saturday morning at Wilmerding, Pa.

During the 36 minutes of play neither side was able to gain any advantage. The ball was carried up and down the field by both teams, neither having the necessary punch to put the piskin across the final chalk mark. The game was played in the morning, both teams taking in the Pitt-West Virginia game at Forbes Field in the afternoon.

Williamson and Saltsman were also given an opportunity to get into the scrimmage, substituting for other members of the orange and black squad.

South Hills high squad of Pittsburgh will be the attraction at Central park when high plays its next game Saturday.

INDEPENDENTS TO OPEN SEASON SATURDAY

On account of the postponement of the game with the Pollansbee Tanks, to have been played at Central park Saturday afternoon, the Wellsville Independents will open their season next Saturday afternoon with the Toronto Tigers at Toronto.

Continuous rainfall during Friday night and the most of Saturday morning made football at Central park impossible. As a result the Tanks were notified not to appear. Manager Fogo, however, will bring the Pollansbee aggregation here for a game on Saturday, October 25, all tickets sold Saturday being honored at the latter date.

The sugar situation in East Liverpool remained at a near acute stage Monday with limited sales of sugar available in practically all grocery stores.

THE SOLDIER'S JOB.

Some one has said that the highest reward that can come to a truly great and useful citizen is enlarged opportunity for further service. This is perhaps as good an answer as any to the persons who are saying today that the soldiers have done their share and should not be expected to do anything more for their fellow-men for years to come.

The soldiers themselves are not the ones who are making the big noise about bonuses and pensions. There are comparatively few ex-service men who are out to grab as much coin from the public purse as possible. Even those who honestly believe that the $60 bonus was too small to tide over the period of adjustment from military to civilian life are in no haste to open the floodgates to a deluge of pension and gratuity evils.

The real attitude of the honest citizen, whether he served his country in a military way or not, is expressed in this extract from a letter written by a soldier and published in "The Home Sector," an ex-soldier publication:

"As a result of all these years of war, the world is short of everything—food, clothes, materials of all kinds that go to make the world a fit and agreeable place to live in. It is our duty as ex-service men to turn to and bring back peace and prosperity; there can be none of the former without the latter; and the quicker we all get on the job, even if it is nothing more than a pick and shovel job, the sooner we shall see real peace in the world.

"Every soldier who doesn't get to work now—for his country never needed him so much as now—is just as much a slacker as the man who dodged the draft. All of us who were in the army think we learned how to be good soldiers of war; let us now prove that we can be good soldiers of peace."

STEEL WORKERS AND PULPIT WORKERS.

The clergymen of the Episcopal church are demanding—or rather requesting—higher pay. It is announced that half of them are getting less than $1,500 a year, though that sum is regarded by government economists as the very least on which a family of two or three persons can be decently maintained.

The range of salaries is interesting. Of 1,379 salaried in New England, Middle West and Pacific Coast districts, where salaries seem rather higher than the average, there are 28 receiving less than $500 a year, 53 from $500 to $750, 84 from $750 to $1,000, and 506 between $1,000 and $1,500. There are 43 men, mostly bishops, who are paid $3,000 apiece. There are 15 who receive more than $7,000.

If these salaries were compared in detail with the wages of the striking steel men, it seems likely that the ministers would be found worse off than the manual workers. The highest salaries in this church are found to be about the same as the wages of expert rollers in the steel mills. The lowest are probably lower than any paid in the steel industry.

This comparison is not made to show that industrial pay is higher than it ought to be, but to suggest that ministerial pay is lower than it ought to be. Surely the pulpit worker, no less than the mill worker, is worthy of his hire, and worthy of a better hire than he received.

The plight of the average minister's family today, no matter what the denomination, is little less than tragic. Salaries have risen slowly and slightly, while the cost of living has fallen upon this class with special force, because ministers' families are obliged to "keep up appearances," and the things that make that possible have soared to prohibitive prices.

This is more than unfair. It is cruel. Parishioners in general have prospered, while their pastors have suffered. If communities want churches, they should pay the price, and divide their incomes more equitably with the men who keep the churches going.

THE CHANNEL TUNNEL.

The tunnel under the British Channel is assured. All opposition to it, either in France or England, has disappeared, though objections died hard in England, because her wave-washed shores were considered her best protection. Now such a connecting link between the two countries is considered a desirable step toward facilitating traffic.

The channel passage is notoriously rough, and passenger traffic through the tunnel will be its greatest factor. Perishable freight and luxuries requiring rapid transportation also can be shipped by the tunnel route better than in any other way except perhaps by airplane, and that mode of travel will not entirely supersede rail travel for many a day.

The subject was actively broached in 1882, and a protest signed by 1,000 leading Englishmen begged that governmental sanction should not be given to this revolutionary scheme for opening the shores of England to the foe. Interesting among the names which signed that petition are those of Arthur Balfour, Walter Long, Huxley, Herbert Spencer, Tennyson and Robert Browning.

Doubtless the dead great men in this list must look with angelic surprise on their insular timidity, as they view the earth plan in its entirety from where they sit. Those of the list who are living, like sensible men, have advanced with the times, and realize that it is bonds to hold the world together that are needed, since nearly all the trouble since time began has come from cherishing barriers to keep the nations apart.

France has decided that it is advantageous to renew trade with Germany because it helps the Germans to pay their indemnity and helps prosperity.

Ocean freight rates have gone down lately. In the natural course of events, we may expect imported goods to cost more than ever.

The cost of the British railway strike is estimated at $250,000,000. That would have paid a good deal of the interest on the British war debt.

NEW YORK LETTER

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—This is an era of wearing patched trousers and re-soled shoes and boasting about it—so it is not strange that New Yorkers may still be seen wearing straw hats. Even at this late date I counted 40 in one block on Broadway and the latest date for them is Sept. 23.

The natural time for the seasonal disappearance of straw hats is when summer ends. Years ago, however, it became a custom of the younger set on the Stock Exchange to destroy any straw hat appearing on the trading floor on or after September 15.

Evidently this wasteful notion has gone into other walks of life. This year, with the habits of war enforcing thrift, the headless were smashing straw hats. And so thrifty have men become that where they formerly laughed they now fought.

Two lamentable cases of the results of hat smashing were printed in New York papers. In the first, the outraged citizen went to court and complained against the hat breaker, but the magistrate dismissed the prisoner.

In the other instance a man who had taken up Wall Street's frivolous trick seized the straw hat of one who proved to be a policeman. In the end after a tumult, assault and arrest and flight, the hat smasher fell dead with the policeman's bullet in his heart.

It seems that there is only one place in New York where you can smash a hat and get away with it and that is on the Stock Exchange—admission to that corral may be had for about $80,000 whenever a seat is up for sale.

One of the features of the end of the straw hat season in New York is the sudden abandonment of thousands in New York hotels by guests. It is a custom in such hotels as the Waldorf, Commodore, Astor and others to place the hats on the curb outside of the hotel and less fortunate form the East Side flock over and take their pick—laying them away for next year.

The reign of the hotel bandits terrorized guests in New York hotels. Each day had a hold-up more startling. A nervous gentleman went into the breakfast room of the Ritz and opened the morning paper. Screaming headlines told him of three more hotel hold-ups during the night. Just about this time the waiter came up. "What will you have sir?" he asked. "Ham and eggs," said the guest without looking up from his paper.

Now that Gilda Gray, the famous Barbary Coast shimmy dancer, is dancing with guests in a Broadway cafe they are telling some strange stories. One is that a reporter on the World danced with her after the theater the other night and at 5 a. m. he was still shaking.

It was a regular wild-west hold-up scene in one of the Forty Second street lobster palaces the other evening when half a hundred Department of Justice sleuths pounced into the room from every corner and demanded that patrons keep their seats. Those who were drinking ice tea and gingerale did not relish the procedure at all. In fact the newspapers were full of letters for several days from indignant patrons who were hot under the collar. However, they seemed utterly to realize that times have changed. Prohibition is here and whether they like it or not, the law must be enforced. One of the amusing sidelights on the rail was the rushing to the curb of a score of men who began emptying bottles of whisky they carried on their hips. Broadway wept at such terrible waste.

Distinguished Dresses Fascinating and Lovely of Silks and Woolens

The dresses this season are nothing short of enchanting in color and fabric, and at the same time they are the most wearable, most practical things imaginable.

The styles are exquisite this season, and follow the straight line effects that fall gracefully from the shoulders. Embellished with a touch of rich beadwork, or perhaps embroidered in colors that lend a touch of contrast. Others are made plainly with perhaps a braid trimming, and of course, belts and girdles are very much in evidence. Among the lovely silks that have gone into the making of these dresses are the Tricotettes, Georgettes, Taffeta Silks and Satins. In the charming woolens are Serges, Tricotines, Jersey and Panama. The colors that are fashionable for Fall and Winter are well represented in the assembly—Navy Blue, Brown, Taupe, Burgundy, Copenhagen Blue and Blacks. The range of prices for wool dresses is $15 to $49, and the Silk Dresses $18.50 to $65.

OPEN CANVASS FOR MEMBERS FOR Y. M. C. A.

Boys Director Cramer Launches Speaking Campaign.

EQUIPMENT ALSO SOUGHT

Institution Will Be Open Every Day Except Sunday.

With the establishment of John Cramer as head of the boys' division at the Y. M. C. A. a campaign for new members and new equipment for the department has been launched.

Director Cramer has started a speaking campaign through the public schools to attract new members to the association and has already visited a number of grade buildings.

The old equipment of the boys' division, worn out through use and abuse, will be removed and new paraphernalia installed, Cramer said Saturday. East Liverpool people desiring to contribute victrola records for use in the boys' department are urged to get into communication with Director Cramer. Mr. Cramer is also seeking the contribution of a pool table for the use of the junior, intermediate and employed boys in the division room.

A number of boys whose parents are unable to meet the membership fee have applied to Director Cramer for assistance in enrolling in the Y. M. C. A. and any one of a philanthropic turn of mind wishing to assist these boys in paying their dues are also asked to advise Mr. Cramer.

The Y. M. C. A. will be open every day in the week except Sunday, Director Cramer said. Privileges of the association building have been abused by boys and young men congregating there on Sunday in violation of all existing rules and steps will be taken to put a stop to the practice.

STILL AWAIT WORD ON CANNON REQUEST

With Beaver county's German field cannon established in front of the county court house in Beaver, East Liverpool authorities are still awaiting definite word as to the fate of the measure introduced by Congressman B. Frank Murphy of this district seeking a captured piece of Hun artillery for this city. Hundreds of similar requests from all parts of the country were sent to Washington, and East Liverpool's request has probably been lost in the shuffle, it is explained.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—This is an era of wearing patched trousers and re-soled shoes and boasting about it—so it is not strange that New Yorkers may still be seen wearing straw hats. Even at this late date I counted 40 in one block on Broadway and the latest date for them is Sept. 23.

The natural time for the seasonal disappearance of straw hats is when summer ends. Years ago, however, it became a custom of the younger set on the Stock Exchange to destroy any straw hat appearing on the trading floor on or after September 15.

Evidently this wasteful notion has gone into other walks of life. This year, with the habits of war enforcing thrift, the headless were smashing straw hats. And so thrifty have men become that where they formerly laughed they now fought.

Two lamentable cases of the results of hat smashing were printed in New York papers. In the first, the outraged citizen went to court and complained against the hat breaker, but the magistrate dismissed the prisoner.

In the other instance a man who had taken up Wall Street's frivolous trick seized the straw hat of one who proved to be a policeman. In the end after a tumult, assault and arrest and flight, the hat smasher fell dead with the policeman's bullet in his heart.

It seems that there is only one place in New York where you can smash a hat and get away with it and that is on the Stock Exchange—admission to that corral may be had for about $80,000 whenever a seat is up for sale.

One of the features of the end of the straw hat season in New York is the sudden abandonment of thousands in New York hotels by guests. It is a custom in such hotels as the Waldorf, Commodore, Astor and others to place the hats on the curb outside of the hotel and less fortunate form the East Side flock over and take their pick—laying them away for next year.

The reign of the hotel bandits terrorized guests in New York hotels. Each day had a hold-up more startling. A nervous gentleman went into the breakfast room of the Ritz and opened the morning paper. Screaming headlines told him of three more hotel hold-ups during the night. Just about this time the waiter came up. "What will you have sir?" he asked. "Ham and eggs," said the guest without looking up from his paper.

Now that Gilda Gray, the famous Barbary Coast shimmy dancer, is dancing with guests in a Broadway cafe they are telling some strange stories. One is that a reporter on the World danced with her after the theater the other night and at 5 a. m. he was still shaking.

It was a regular wild-west hold-up scene in one of the Forty Second street lobster palaces the other evening when half a hundred Department of Justice sleuths pounced into the room from every corner and demanded that patrons keep their seats. Those who were drinking ice tea and gingerale did not relish the procedure at all. In fact the newspapers were full of letters for several days from indignant patrons who were hot under the collar. However, they seemed unable to realize that times have changed. Prohibition is here and whether they like it or not, the law must be enforced. One of the amusing sidelights on the rail was the rushing to the curb of a score of men who began emptying bottles of whiskey they carried on their hips. Broadway wept at such terrible waste.

EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO, MONDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1913.

Distinguished Dresses Fascinating and Lovely of Silks and Woolens

The dresses this season are nothing short of enchanting in color and fabric, and at the same time they are the most wearable, most practical things imaginable.

The styles are exquisite this season, and follow the straight line effects that fall gracefully from the shoulders. Embellished with a touch of rich beadwork, or perhaps embroidered in colors that lend a touch of contrast. Others are made plainly with perhaps a braid trimming, and of course, belts and girdles are very much in evidence. Among the lovely silks that have gone into the making of these dresses are the Tricotettes, Georgettes, Taffeta Silks and Satins. In the charming woolens are Serges, Tricotines, Jersey and Panama. The colors that are fashionable for Fall and Winter are well represented in the assembly—Navy Blue, Brown, Taupe, Burgundy, Copenhagen Blue and Blacks. The range of prices for wool dresses is $15 to $49, and the Silk Dresses $18.50 to $65.

EQUIPMENT ALSO SOUGHT

Institution Will Be Open Every Day Except Sunday.

With the establishment of John Cramer as head of the boys' division at the Y. M. C. A. a campaign for new members and new equipment for the department has been launched.

Director Cramer has started a speaking campaign through the public schools to attract new members to the association and has already visited a number of grade buildings.

The old equipment of the boys' division, worn out through use and abuse, will be removed and new paraphernalia installed, Cramer said Saturday. East Liverpool people desiring to contribute victrola records for use in the boys' department are urged to get into communication with Director Cramer. Mr. Cramer is also seeking the contribution of a pool table for the use of the junior, intermediate and employed boys in the division room.

A number of boys whose parents are unable to meet the membership fee have applied to Director Cramer for assistance in enrolling in the Y. M. C. A. and any one of a philanthropic turn of mind wishing to assist these boys in paying their dues are also asked to advise Mr. Cramer.

The Y. M. C. A. will be open every day in the week except Sunday, Director Cramer said. Privileges of the association building have been abused by boys and young men congregating there on Sunday in violation of all existing rules and steps will be taken to put a stop to the practice.

With Beaver county's German field cannon established in front of the county court house in Beaver, East Liverpool authorities are still awaiting definite word as to the fate of the measure introduced by Congressman B. Frank Murphy of this district seeking a captured piece of Hun artillery for this city. Hundreds of similar requests from all parts of the country were sent to Washington, and East Liverpool's request has probably been lost in the shuffle, it is explained.

Mr. Henry J. Holley, No. 4319 Main street, Pittsburgh, who has many friends and acquaintances in this city, recently stated in the following how his wife was restored to health by Plant Juice.

"For years my wife had been in a very bad state of health and got so weak that I became greatly alarmed, as I thought I would lose her. Whenever she ate any food she would suffer the most excruciating pain, and was badly bloated with gas. She could not sleep at night and got weaker every day. I had tried everything in the shape of medicine, but nothing seemed to relieve her, until finally a friend begged her to try Plant Juice. I am certainly glad she did, for she is now feeling better and stronger in every way and can eat her meals; she sleeps well and has no more pain. I am certainly grateful to Plant Juice for saving my wife's life. I am glad to recommend it to others."

HAD TO HAVE HIS HEAD PROPPED UP TO GET TO SLEEP

Zanesville man often slept in a swing, because he couldn't lie down; thought it was his heart

Took Drecto, which killed the gas in his stomach; moved his bowels daily, and the other troubles disappeared.

Zanesville now reports a strange case and one that will interest many citizens. It is told for publication in this paper by Mr. John D. Spinks, a well-known man who resides at 419 Jackson St. He says:

"Many a night I have slept in a swing until three o'clock in the morning because I could not lie down in bed. I always had to have my head propped up to get any sleep at all. I thought the fault was my heart, but I found it was my stomach and bowels, for when I got relief from the gas in my stomach my heart felt all right again, showing it was the gas pressing against my heart."

"This Drecto medicine sure has saved my life, I believe. I can now eat big meals and never have the pain and gas as before. The backache and sore muscles have disappeared, and I get seven hours good sleep every night. My bowels now act regularly, whereas before I had to take medicine every night, and if I forgot it I was bound up the next day. I never have a dizzy spell now, and I feel just fine. You say for me every person in this section should take Drecto is great medicine, and try it."

Drecto rouses a lazy liver; gives strength to weak kidneys; helps the stomach to digest the food; overcomes constipated bowels; relieves backache and dizzy spells.

All good druggists now sell Drecto, and it is highly recommended in this city by Flick Drug Store.

6. How are men often affected to ward work plainly given them to do as compared with some other work for which they are not prepared?

HAD TO HAVE HIS HEAD PROPPED UP TO GET TO SLEEP

Zanesville man often slept in a swing, because he couldn't lie down; thought it was his heart

Took Drego, which killed the gas in his stomach; moved his bowels daily, and the other troubles disappeared.

Zanesville now reports a strange case and one that will interest many citizens. It is told for publication in this paper by Mr. John D. Spinks, a well-known man who resides at 419 Jackson St. He says:

"Many a night I have slept in a swing until three o'clock in the morning because I could not lie down in bed. I always had to have my head propped up to get any sleep at all. I thought the fault was my heart, but I've found it was my stomach and bowels, for when I got relief from the gas in my stomach my heart felt all right again, showing it was the gas pressing against my heart."
"This Drego medicine sure has saved my life, I believe. I can now eat big meals and never have the pain and gas as before. The backache and sore muscles have disappeared, and I get seven hours good sleep every night. My bowels now act regularly, whereas before I had to take medicine every night, and if I forgot it I was bound up the next day. I never have a dizzy spell now, and I feel just fine. You say for me every person in this section should take Drego is great medicine, and try it."

Drego rouses a lazy liver; gives strength to weak kidneys; helps the stomach to digest the food; overcomes constipated bowels; relieves backache and dizzy spells.
All good druggists now sell Drego, and it is highly recommended in this city by Flick Drug Store.

Management of Chester Plant Says Workers Remain Loyal—Labor Organizers Call Meeting.

Despite the fact that organizers of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Plate Workers Sunday issued a strike order against the Chester works of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company to go into effect at midnight Sunday, officials of the plant Monday declared the plant was working in full in every department.

Over 100 employees of the Chester plant have joined the international union, Organizers John Sarge, Wheeling and William Coates, Martins Ferry, declared Monday. The strike call issued Sunday was heeded, the organizers assert and the plant was crippled Monday.

"The mill resumed work in full on Monday morning at 12:30 o'clock," T. R. Timothy, manager of the Chester works, announced Monday. "Every department is working 100 per cent and all our men are at work except those who are out on account of sickness."

A meeting of Chester mill men will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at Trades and Labor Council hall. It was announced Monday by Organizers Sarge and Coates.

Officials of the mill declared that only mill men were admitted to the meeting at Chester Sunday afternoon when, by a vote 300 to 4, the workers decided to remain loyal to the company.

Sunday's meeting was called for the express purpose of ascertaining whether the local mill workers would respond to the appeal of state organizers to unite with a union and join in the nation-wide strike or remain at their benches. The decision to continue at their work was almost unanimous.

A report of a committee of mill workers and business men who visited the Shenango works of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company at New Castle, Pa., Friday, to ascertain the truth of newspaper reports that that plant was badly crippled by the strike was read at this meeting. The report showed that the Shenango plant was operating almost 100 per cent.

Charles H. Davis acted as chairman of the meeting with A. C. Piper as secretary. Several workers in the local plant made remarks, all in favor of remaining at work. One speaker, it is declared in favor of joining in the nation wide strike which entered its fourth week Monday.

Thomas R. Timothy, general manager of the Chester works, told the men that no ill feeling is being harbored against the employees—numbering almost 100—who signed the petition, circulated by salaried organizers from Wheeling about a week ago to organize and eventually walk out. He stated that all employees would be retained at their old positions. His address was given loud applause.

Preparations for resuming operations at the local mill Sunday evening were made when the plant suspended operations for the week-end Saturday morning. Reports given out by mill officials Monday morning were to the effect that everybody was at their places.

The action of the mill workers at Sunday's meeting is believed by the loyal mill workers to mean the end of any attempt to organize the local plant. The Chester plant's decision, it is believed also will have a tendency to cause workers in other plants, who are out on strike to resume their work at an early date.

COUNTY WILL JOIN IN RALLY

As Hancock county's part in the state-wide educational rally will be continued during the last part of October and the early part of November, meetings of teachers and school authorities from all sections of Hancock county will be held at Newell on Oct. 24. This meeting will be in connection with the Institute of Hancock County Teachers' association.

This county has been asked by State Superintendent of Schools M. P. Shawkey to join in the campaign. The ways and means of conducting the work in this county will also be considered at the meeting of the county teachers in Newell.

The paramount purpose of these state wide meetings or rallies, it was explained by Mr. Shawkey, "is to bring the educational problems more closely in touch with the laymen, or general public, than has ever been accomplished through the county institutes and other educational meetings."

Members of the state department of schools and of the faculties of West Virginia University and the other state schools, will respond to calls from the several counties for speakers, many of them already having schedules of dates already completed.

The following list of topics have been suggested for discussion at these educational rallies:

The large plant of the Weirton Steel company at Clarksburg, W. Va., is to be removed to Weirton, according to word which has been received from Clarksburg. Officials of the Weirton plant refuse to either confirm or deny the report.

The Clarksburg works has been closed for about three weeks because of the walkout of the steel workers here. The Clarksburg Chamber of Commerce is making every effort to keep the mill but the company has decided to move all the equipment to Weirton. The plant employs about 1,000 men and has an average monthly payroll of $25,000.

Simple Home Remedy Advised For Rose And Hay Fever. Anyone Can Make a Pint For Trifling Sum and Used In Time May Prevent Annual Attack.

No matter how severe your yearly attack be, No matter how distressing or humiliating—Its intensity can be reduced to a harmless, mildness," says a Kentucky druggist who believes from what he has seen that this simple home made remedy is a most important discovery.

He has seen the most severe and apparently unconquerable cases reduced to what might be called a mild cold in twenty-four hours. In many cases where the patient started treatment a week or ten days before the expected attack the unwelcome yearly visitor failed to appear with anything like its usual intensity.

People who want to try this new treatment can make a pint in a few minutes. Pour one ounce of Mentholized Arcline into a pint bottle then fill the bottle with water that has been boiled. Gargle daily as directed and snuff or spray the nostrils twice daily.

That's all there is to the treatment which so many sufferers have found to be a true friend. Mentholized Arcline in one ounce vials is dispensed by all the better pharmacies.

Psyche Knot.

By Gertrude Epperson

IN the lands where the primitive woman dwells you will find that fashions are permanent. But the restlessness of civilization makes for change. The Psyche knot a la Hottentot is the same now as it was a century ago. When a few iron rings or a string of beads is all that a woman has to indulge her taste for "infinite variety" you would think that today she would wear her kinky locks parted in the middle and arranged in a chignon, and tomorrow she would adorn her head with a coiffure whose loftiness would dazzle her dusky suitors and make her hated rivals go and do likewise, even as the civilized female of the species who would rather be dead than out of fashion.

Barbaric Survivals

The Javanese is de rigueur when she smokes a pipe instead of a gold tipped cigarette and wears her coiffure closely wrapped to follow the contour of her head, until it reaches the crown, where it towers in rolls from which hang sea-shells that tinkle when she walks with the uncorrected grace of the East. This fashion in head-dress in Java is as changeless as the sea from which her daughter gathers her ornaments.

The Hawaiian girl lets her hair hang free to the winds of the enchanted isles that she calls home. Here again we find the unchanging fashion. No amount of civilization which the white race brought to the daughter of Queen "Lili" can induce her to do up her hair in tight artificial ways.

With civilization comes change and elaboration in head-dress. As mankind advanced from savagery, and with each step in his development, became more sensitive to beauty, the hair took rank as something more than a mere covering for the scalp and a protection from the weather.

In Biblical times it was a disgrace to be bald, and the term "baldhead" was one of reproach. Among eastern nations men as well as women wore their hair long and carried to great extremes its curling and dressing, and anointed it with aromatic pomatums.

Among the Gauls we also find that both sexes esteemed long hair. When conquered by Julius Caesar they were compelled to cut their hair in token of submission. Caesar, being bald himself, thoroughly appreciated the penalty he inflicted, for it is said of all the honors bestowed upon him by Rome, he valued most the privilege of wearing always his crown of laurels, which concealed his baldness. The ancient Britons were extremely proud of their abundant blonde locks and to increase their brightness they used a mixture which had a similar effect to the modern bleaches.

Coiffure Ornaments

During the Middle Ages elaborate hair ornaments were in fashion for women. Burne-Jones's illustrations of Chaucer, particularly the Canterbury Pilgrims, show the most picturesque head-dress worn by the women of that period, and in a less attractive era the hair was sometimes piled three or four feet high and arranged on wires to represent fantastic figures, ships being especially favored.

Today woman not only uses elaborate ingenuity in arranging her hair, but exploits jewels and other ornaments.

This fact is strikingly noticeable in Paris, where the love of elaborate head-dress has been picturesquely revived since the coming of peace, in the evening one never sees a woman without some ornamentation in her hair. At the opera this fashion reaches an interesting extreme, where the Bacchante headdress of grapes and gold ribbon was worn with a costume of cerise tulle. Vivid purple and deep wine color were the grapes. Dull gold leaves entwined the fruit, which was held by a filet of gold ribbon worn low on the brow.

The Prevalence of Tulle

Another interesting feature of the Parisian coiffure has been the prevalence of tulle, which usually follows the line that a knot of hair would assume only in a more exaggerated degree. Brown tulle was used with brown locks, frequently, but more often the Parisian strove for brilliant color contrast.

An artistic headdress worn by a blonde was effected by parting the hair in the middle and winding it around the head a la Grec. Over this natural bandeau was worn a garland of flowers in shades of pink, blue and yellow. Blue tulle completed the chignon in the back and stuck out in airy fashion.

spiration in the old-fashioned chaplet of leaves, but it struck modernism in highly-keyed colors: Futuristic flowers were made of jade green satin, centred with orange. These were entwined with silver leaves and posed against the raven tresses of a brunette. Her Psyche knot was loosely pinned by a jeweled comb which held a puff of green tulle.

The high coiffure was effectively adopted by a Titian haired beauty whose luxuriant auburn tresses were caught in a loose knot, through which a spray of black paradise was pinned with a diamond comb.

Filet of Ostrich Feathers

Ostrich feathers in all their soft loveliness were employed to make filets that literally caressed the brow, with their soft frondes dyed in various colors to match the gowns with which they were worn. Pink, the complexion shade, was the most popular for these ostrich bandeaux which were completed by a spray of paradise.

Occasionally a narrow jewel bandeau was worn about the head and forehead, and clasping under a barbaric jewel in front, it supported a towering spray of paradise or a stiff aigrette. Such a bandeau of rhinestones and emeralds was clasped with a square sapphire, which supported an aigrette of emerald green. This headdress was worn with a gown of green and silver, designed especially as a background for these wonderful sapphires. A huge sapphire was centred in a diamond necklace, and the scarf sleeves of the dress were caught by armlets of diamonds and emeralds clasped with square sapphires.

At The Theatres

"PRETTY BABY" MUSICAL SHOW AT CERAMIC

The one or less per cent of our population that pronounces drama with a broad "a" and that believes the mission of the theatre is, or should be, solely educational, will probably not like the big song and dance sensation, The Jimmie Hodges Musical Comedy company will present at the Ceramic theatre for one week starting Monday with "Pretty Baby," with entire change of production, scenery, wardrobe and musical numbers each night. On the other hand, the 99 per cent who pay money to be entertained will say that it is a rattling good clean, wholesome musical comedy should not miss.

Jimmie Hodges has evidently pointed his arrow at the satisfaction of the majority, judging from the excellent notices that the critics have been tendering the entertainment throughout the larger cities.

The show is speedy, sophisticated and what is more it is clean and refined. If two and one-half hours of progress do not change the attitude of the most ingrained grouch there is no hope of the wearer thereof.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS IN FILM AT STRAND

The first motion picture to be made by Douglas Fairbanks, as a member of the "Big Four"—United Artists Corporation, to use its full name—has been secured by the management of the Strand theatre.

The first picture to be put out by this new giant organization is "His Majesty, the American." The plans of the company are so full of promise of better things all around in the motion picture business, that theatres the country over have been most anxious to secure the first production to be made under these ideal conditions.

The Strand theatre will be the distinction of first exhibiting "His Majesty, the American" to the people of this city Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The picture itself is said to be the most ambitious production that Fairbanks has ever undertaken. Eight weeks were devoted exclusively to the preparation of the scenario, Jos. Henaberry, who created the part of "Lincoln" in the "Birth of a Nation," and who assisted D. W. Griffith in producing "Intolerance," and also directed Douglas Fairbanks in "The Man from Painted Post," "Say Young Fellow" and other noteworthy successes, developed the scenario with the assistance of Elton Banks. Mr. Henaberry, of course, is the director of "His Majesty, the American."

ARE YOU LEGALLY MARRIED? AT DIAMOND

The story of "Are You Legally Married?" exceptionally original in its theme, was written at the suggestion and by the research of Miles Dobson, B. A., who devoted over two years in gathering the facts and foundations upon which it is based. The scenario is from the pen of Henry Christine Warnack, who gave "The Honor System," "The Conqueror," and some of our most popular stories to the screen.

The social welfare of practically every community in these United States is affected by having the stigma of illegitimacy branded upon millions of innocent children within their midst. The facts by which such a tragic upheaval is made possible are clearly and most forcibly set out in this picture, which is full of a human heart interest that has been neglected in so many of our latter-day films. The highly dramatic ability of the cast is ably set forth by the master hand of a clever director and the magic touch of an expert photographer. So many screen characterizations and poor stories are given to the silver sheet today by even some of the best producers that it relieves one's eyes, heart and soul to be given this opportunity to take home so interesting a story and so unusual a photoplay as is offered in "Are You Legally Married?" which appears at the Diamond theatre the first three days of this week.

GRACE DARMOND IN "VALLEY OF GIANTS"

Grace Darmond, the beautiful leading woman, who has been playing leads in dramatic productions for a number of years, plays the leading feminine role opposite the star in "The Valley of the Giants," a beautiful Paramount-Artcraft picture starring Wallace Reid, which will be shown at the American theatre three days beginning Monday.

Miss Darmond, besides being one of the most beautiful actresses on the screen, has gained an enviable popularity among screen patrons because of her remarkable talent in the portrayal of dramatic roles. Miss Darmond entered screen work after a stage career in which she played in many notable productions, and she was associated with some of the most famous players in America.

In this production, Miss Darmond portrays the role of the beautiful niece of Colonel Pennington, who is trying to bring from James Cardigan, pioneer California lumberman and founder of the city of Sequoia, a valuable strip of land known as the Valley of the Giants. Cardigan has instilled into the mind of his only son, Bryce, which part is portrayed by Wallace Reid, that he must protect the valley with his life, if necessary, as it was a gift to his dead mother, who lies buried there, and which is, therefore, sacred to both father and son.

Bryce is about to build a railroad out of the valley, thus opening up its vast resources to the outside world, when the cunning Colonel Pennington bribes the mayor to vacate his (Bryce's) franchise. Cardigan despairs and is about to sell the valley to Pennington when Judge Moore informs him he has an unknown client who will pay twice as much as Pennington. The client later proves to be Shirley, Pennington's niece, who buys the land and then marries Bryce, who is in love with her, thus saving the beautiful Valley of the Giants from falling into Pennington's possession.

Crow May Get Appointment. Columbus, Oct. 13.—The nomination of Judge Maurice Donahue of the Ohio supreme court, having gone to the senate for Judge of the United States court at Cincinnati, Governor Cox is awaiting confirmation before naming a successor to Donahue on the supreme bench. In political circles the appointment of Philip W. Crow of Kenton is looked for.

Miss Darmond, besides being one of the most beautiful actresses on the screen, has gained an enviable popularity among screen patrons because of her remarkable talent in the portrayal of dramatic roles. Miss Darmond entered screen work after a stage career in which she played in many notable productions, and she was associated with some of the most famous players in America.

In this production, Miss Darmond portrays the role of the beautiful niece of Colonel Pennington, who is trying to win from James Cardigan, pioneer California lumberman and founder of the city of Sequoia, a valuable strip of land known as the Valley of the Giants. Cardigan has instilled into the mind of his only son, Bryce, which part is portrayed by Wallace Reid, that he must protect the valley with his life, if necessary, as it was a gift to his dead mother, who lies buried there, and which is, therefore, sacred to both father and son.

Bryce is about to build a railroad out of the valley, thus opening up its vast resources to the outside world, when the cunning Colonel Pennington bribes the mayor to vacate his (Bryce's) franchise. Cardigan despairs and is about to sell the valley to Pennington when Judge Moore informs him he has an unknown client who will pay twice as much as Pennington. The client later proves to be Shirley, Pennington's niece, who buys the land and then marries Bryce, who is in love with her, thus saving the beautiful Valley of the Giants from falling into Pennington's possession.

25 MEN QUIT LAUGHLIN SHOPS

The decorating department of both the Newell and East End plants of the Homer Laughlin China company may soon have to suspend operations as the result of labor trouble, which last week caused approximately 25 decorating kiln firemen and kiln placers to quit their posts. The walkout of the men last week came after they had worked out their two week notices.

The men tendered their resignations to the firm because they declared they were not being paid equally with the men engaged in similar work in other plants.

A committee met with W. E. Wells, general manager of the plant, before tendering their resignations and the matter was considered fully. Mr. Wells, at this conference, it is said, offered the men five per cent increase in addition to the five per cent offered at the recent wage conference at Atlantic City, but this was not accepted.

Edward Carson, head of the decorating department of the Newell plants, declared Saturday that the decorating kilnmen in his plant were paid as much as the majority of the plants in the East Liverpool district. While conditions at the several potteries make it so that no uniform price can be set for this work, Mr. Carson declared that from figures gathered from other plants proof was given the fact that the men in the Newell plants were paid equally in most of the plants and in some cases higher. Only in the case of one pottery he said was a higher wage paid for a certain kiln and because of this exception he did not believe that this price should be used as a standard. "Figures which we have gathered," Mr. Carson declared, "shows that the decorating kilnmen employed in the Laughlin plants received as much per hour and per day as the kilnmen in other plants."

The men, on the other hand, assert that they have been underpaid for a number of years and now declare all that they are asking is that they be paid the uniform scale.

Every kilnhand in the five plants quit his position, which the manufacturers claim equivalent to a strike. The men have refused to let the matter be decided by the western standing committee and abide by their decision, although the committee started its investigation Saturday.

BOWLING
FIRST DEFEAT

Heavier Sebring Tigers Overcome Smith's Team, 19-0—Muddy Field Makes Fast Play Impossible.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars suffered their first defeat of the season Sunday afternoon when a combination of weight hard luck and downright hard playing on the part of the Sebring Tigers forced them to crumple to a 19-0 score.

However, the score does not indicate that Sebring was 19 points better than the Veterans. They were not and will be given another chance to prove it, if they can, later in the season when they will be brought to West End park. Just as it is claimed that West Virginia was not 6 points the inferior of Pitt, although that score was rolled up against them, it is the belief of East Liverpool fans who saw the game at Sebring Sunday that only a combination of breaks gave the Sebringites their victory.

The field was muddy and slippery. A heavy line had all the advantage. Sebring's line was exceptionally heavy one of the heaviest, if not the biggest, that the Veterans are likely to run up against during the rest of the season. The backfield men were no heavier than the Vets, but the team averaged a whole 175 pounds, according to a statement by the officials. This weight gave them tremendous impetus in line backs but in spite of this the Veterans held them, actually held them for losses at times.

Only twice did the line break and this itself did not cause the scoring. After battling for two periods and the greater part of the third, a couple of forward passes and fumbles brought the Tigers to within striking distance of the Vets' goal line. Smith was called on to put the pigskin out of danger. He was given the ball. He slipped just enough to throw him off his balance, and as a result his kick went wild. It struck one of the players on the back, bounced back three feet, landing back of the East Liverpool goal line. Several Sebring players were quickly upon it.

The next score was earned. After Art Smith had been taken from the lineup and the Vets found themselves arrayed in defense of their goal line, a well executed end run took the ball across the line. As if to be lenient with the Vets, realizing that probably that the other two scores were flukes of the game, providence permitted the Tigers to kick only this one goal. With two minutes to play the final score was made. Kapp was carrying the ball about twenty yards from his goal. He attempted an end run. His interference broke and two Tigers piled him. Thrown roughly, he hit flat on his stomach, knocking his loose from his hand and also the ball. The pigskin shot out along the ground. One of the Sebring men, running in to meet the play accidentally kicked the ball a resounding whack with his foot, sending it hurtling across the goal line. He quickly followed up his advantage, and while the Vets' backfield and the majority of the line were all gummed up in the play, he darted behind the goal and grabbed the ball. On the punt out, he failed to get the ball to his men, losing a point.

Taken all around fans claimed it to be one of the best games played at Sebring this season. The Tigers have played five games so far this season. Here are the scores: Tigers 21, Leontonia 0; Tigers 24, Salem 0; Tigers 24, Alliance 0; Tigers 13, Canton Romanians 0; Tigers 13 Veterans of Foreign Wars, 0. The last score compares very favorably with the rest of them. The Canton club was the only outfit to hold the Sebringites to a lower score than did the Vets.

And, too, consider the personnel of the team. Munsell from Salem, played a half. Benton, a strapping youth of but 225 pounds, from Columbiana, played guard. Albright, of Lisbon fame, was stationed at the other guard. Arnold from Leontonia also helped as did several others. However, the Vets claim no alibi. Absolutely none. With the ground the condition it was the lighter team was handicapped to a great extent and it is believed by practically all who saw the engagement that with a dry field, it is very quarter. Calling signals in the final Tigers would have won.

In spite of the slippery, muddy condition of the field, both sides played the forward pass extensively. It was the Vets' biggest ground gain. The Tigers were also successful to some extent.

Aside from losing the game, the Vets lose the services of Captain Art Smith for a short period. In the last quarter, after making a punt, Smith went after the Sebring back, carrying the ball down the side lines. He made a hard tackle, both men falling against a bench along the side lines. Smith's hand struck the jagged edge of a bottle, cutting a deep gash. It required two stitches to sew it together again. The Sebring back struck his head against the bench and was rendered hors-de-combat for a few minutes.

Ends Shaw and Keetler played a defensive game for the Vets. They were aided nobly by the Rutledge brothers, Walker, Wheatley and Hall. Eddie Carrier, as usual, was all there, both on defense and offense. Kapp was calling the numbers and played heady football at all times. McLaughlin, Moore and Smith were the other three backs to start. Smith went out, giving Wheatley a chance in the third quarter. Calling signals in the final period McLaughlin pulled off several forward passes that brought rounds of applause from the sidelines.

The lineup:

Touchdowns—Benson, Shreckengost, Arnold.
Goal from touchdown—Arnold.
Substitutes: Shenkle for D. Rutledge; D. Rutledge for Walker; Winsor for D. Rutledge; Wheatley for Smith; Denmore for Wheatley; Campbell for Munsell; Cooke for Campbell.

In the face of bear stories from Ann Arbor relative to a shortage of material and absence of Steteket and other luminaries who were expected to be available for duty the Buckeyes are going seriously about their task. Cincinnati and Kentucky State remain on the Ohio schedule before the Michigan game. While Dr. Wilce and his proteges are not underestimating the strength of these teams and are not taking any chances the fact remains that the Buckeyes are loading for bigger game.

"Nine practice games before Michigan." So runs a notice in big letters on the varsity football bulletin board. That bulletin has been there ever since the season opened. Each day one practice session is crossed off. The players see that sign before they go onto Ohio Field for practice; they see it after the daily drill; they see it between times; they don't get a chance to forget about Michigan.

Man for man, line for line backfield for backfield there is no doubt in the minds of Ohio States that there is material for a combination that, given an even share of the breaks that go to make up the ordinary football game, is fully equal to the 1919 Ann Arbor machine. Followers of the Scarlet and Gray who saw Michigan win by two touchdowns in the last quarter of play from Ohio's crippled eleven of last fall insisted that the Michigan team appeared here was not equal of the Buckeye Champion Big Ten teams of either 1916 and 1917.

With Captain Harley all-American halfback of those years and with other stars who like Harley were in service, back on the team—hopes are beating high under Scarlet and Gray jerseys that the Wilceman like the well-known worm and like the "Zinzy" Reds will turn the tables on the Yostmen and register the first victory for Ohio State over a Michigan football team.

Believing that the present model of the Wilce machine can vanquish the 'jinx' which has haunted Buckeye team for 22 years when Michigan was concerned preparations are being made to get railroad administration to give a special train at reduced fare to the game. In any event there will be

GETTING SCARCE

Lads Who Used to Slam Pill Over Billboards Seem to Have Disappeared Entirely.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Fence busting, the ancient and honorable art made famous by such sturdy sons of swat as Honus Wagner, Larry Lajoie, Willie Ketter and others, and carried into more recent time by such players as Cobb and Roush, whose hitting won them honors in the big show this year, seems to have been somewhat of a forgotten art in the National league during the recent summer.

Glancing back at the batting averages of the National leaguers we find that the number who finished the job hitting 300 or better has been sadly depleted when compared to the select sets of other years. Something is radically wrong.

Either the historic ability of National league players to slug the pill has suffered a decided and almost fatal slump, or the pitching of the box-men has improved by more than 50 per cent. Which is it?

The select set in the old league includes the names of two lusty sluggers who helped the Reds win the National league flag—Roush and Groh. But there are few in the 300 class and official averages when they are published a little later on will probably furnish some surprises if one cares to make comparisons between them and the figures of a few years ago when the fences in National league parks were constantly being violated.

At the close of several weeks during the National league campaign there were but four or five players hitting 300 or better. It didn't seem natural. It wasn't natural. About the middle of September, for instance, Roush, Groh, Muesel, of the Phillies; Hornsby, of the Cardinals, and Hit Meyers of Brooklyn, comprised the first five batsmen, and Myers was numbered among them with an average of only .299, while Roush was hitting .313 at the time, a remarkably low average for the leader in the old league.

By comparison with the American league batsmen, the heaviest hitters in the National will undoubtedly show to a disadvantage when the final averages for both leagues are made public. Cobb, the Peerless Peach, if we are to take 1919 figures for it alone, would probably have hammered his way into the lead in the first month of the season had he been in the National league, and outdistanced all competitors so far by mid-season that he could not have been seen for dust.

It has been a number of years since batting in the National league has been as weak as it is today. Back in 1915 Larry Doyle won the batting championship, hitting only .329. In 1905 and 1909, when Hans Wagner led the old league with .354 and .339 respectively, other hitters, with the exception of Mike Donlin, trailed the famous "Flying Dutchman" at a long distance.

Baseball men are wondering whether to attribute the slump to a general falling off of batting in John Heydler's circuit, or blame it on the shine ball or one of the many other freak deliveries of the pitchers.

Next Game Will Be Real Test of State's Ability.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13.—Ohio State is pointing for Michigan. Followers of the Scarlet and Gray make no secret of the fact that the Columbus team is bounding every energy with that end in view for October 25 when the 1916 and 1917 Big Ten champions go to Ann Arbor to try conclusions with Hurry Up Yost's crew for the sixteenth time.

Dr. Wilce's men have a heavy score to settle with the Wolverines and the slogan "Beat Michigan" is writ large in the daily thoughts of every undergrad and alumnus. Ohio States feel in their bones they have a better chance to emerge from the Michigan game with the large end of the score than they ever had before.

In the day's when the local varsity was a football weakling the Ann Arbor eleven lollied up a huge score almost at will on the Columbus players in the annual game. But now that the Buckeyes have doffed their swaddling clothes, times have changed—and thereby hangs this tale.

Of the sixteen games between the two teams and despite the intense rivalry naturally existing between the two, Michigan has won 13 and tied 2. Of the 13 defeats Ohio State has suffered, 11 have been shutouts. In

BOWLING
FIRST DEFEAT

Heavier Sebring Tigers Overcome Smith's Team, 19-0—Muddy Field Makes Fast Play Impossible.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars suffered their first defeat of the season Sunday afternoon when a combination of weight hard luck and downright hard playing on the part of the Sebring Tigers forced them to crumple to a 19-0 score.

However, the score does not indicate that Sebring was 19 points better than the Veterans. They were not and will be given another chance to prove it, if they can, later in the season when they will be brought to West End park. Just as it is claimed that West Virginia was not 6 points the inferior of Pitt, although that score was rolled up against them, it is the belief of East Liverpool fans who saw the game at Sebring Sunday that only a combination of breaks gave the Sebringites their victory.

The field was muddy and slippery. A heavy line had all the advantage. Sebring's line was exceptionally heavy one of the heaviest, if not the biggest, that the Veterans are likely to run up against during the rest of the season. The backfield men were no heavier than the Vets, but the team averaged a whole 175 pounds, according to a statement by their officials. This weight gave them tremendous impetus in line bucks but in spite of this the Veterans held them, actually held them for losses at times.

Only twice did the line break and this itself did not cause the scoring. After battling for two periods and the greater part of the third, a couple of forward passes and fumbles brought the Tigers to within striking distance of the Yank's goal line. Smith was called on to put the pigskin out of danger. He was given the ball. He slipped just enough to throw him off his balance, and as a result his kick went wild. It struck one of the players on the back, bounced back three air, landing back of the East Liverpool goal line. Several Sebring players were quickly upon it.

The next score was earned. After Art Smith had been taken from the lineups and the Vets found themselves arrayed in defense of their goal line, a well executed end run took the ball across the line. As if it were a fluke, the Vets, realizing that probably that the other two scores were flukes of the game, providence permitted the Tigers to kick only this one goal. With two minutes to play the final score was made. Kapp was carrying the ball about twenty yards from his goal. He attempted an end run. His interference broke and two Tigers piled him. Thrown roughly, he lit flat on his stomach, knocking his loose from his hand and also the ball. The pigskin shot out along the ground. One of the Sebring men, running in to meet the play accidentally kicked the ball, sending it hurtling across the goal line. He quickly followed up his advantage, and while the Vets' backfield and the majority of the line were all gunned up in the play, he darted behind the goal and grabbed the ball. On the punt out, he failed to get the ball to his men, losing a point.

Lads Who Used to Slam Pill Over Billboards Seem to Have Disappeared Entirely.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Fence busting, the ancient and honorable art made famous by such sturdy sons of swat as Honus Wagner, Larry Lajoie, Willie Keller and others, and carried into more recent time by such players as Cobb and Roush, whose hitting won them honors in the big show this year, seems to have been somewhat of a forgotten art in the National league during the recent summer.

Glancing back at the batting averages of the National leaguers we find that the number who finished the job hitting 300 or better has been sadly depleted when compared to the select sets of other years. Something is radically wrong.

Either the historic ability of National league players to slug the pill has suffered a decided and almost fatal slump, or the pitching of the boxmen has improved by more than 50 per cent. Which is it?

The select set in the old league includes the names of two lusty sluggers who helped the Reds win the National league flag—Roush and Groh. But there are few in the 300 class and official averages when they are published a little later on will probably furnish some surprises if one cares to make comparisons between them and the figures of a few years ago when the fences in National league parks were constantly being violated.

At the close of several weeks during the National league campaign there were but four or five players hitting 300 or better. It didn't seem natural. It wasn't natural. About the middle of September, for instance, Roush, Groh, Muesel, of the Phillies; Hornsby, of the Cardinals, and Hil Meyers of Brooklyn, comprised the first five batsmen, and Myers was numbered among them with an average of only .299, while Roush was hitting .313 at the time, a remarkably low average for the leader in the old league.

By comparison with the American league batsmen, the heaviest hitters in the National will undoubtedly show to a disadvantage when the final averages for both leagues are made public. Cobb, the Peerless Peach, if we are to take 1919 figures for it alone, would probably have hammered his way into the lead in the first month of the season had he been in the National league, and outdistanced all competitors so far by mid-season that he could not have been seen for dust.

It has been a number of years since batting in the National league has been as weak as it is today. Back in 1915 Larry Doyle won the batting championship, hitting only .329. In 1903 and 1909, when Hans Wagner led the old league with .354 and .329 respectively, other hitters, with the exception of Mike Donlin, trailed the famous "Flying Dutchman" at a long distance.

Baseball men are wondering whether to attribute the slump to a general falling off of batting in John Heydler's circuit, or blame it on the shine ball or one of the many other freak deliveries of the pitchers.

FIVE RECRUITS
FOR U. S. NAVY

Two East Liverpool Lads and Three from Wellsville Enlist.

Five enlistments in the U. S. navy were made through the navy recruiting station, Little building, this week. Chief Recruiting Officer William Small announced Saturday.

The five recruits are Charles E. Sainer, Edwards avenue, this city; Donald W. Brown, 1818 Buckeye avenue, Wellsville; Merle Bertran, 1775 Buckeye avenue, Wellsville; Chas. S. Smith, Wellsville, and George Payne, 1265 Foster avenue, this city.

All five enlisted for service aboard the U. S. S. South Carolina now stationed at Norfolk, Va., in readiness to begin a cruise in the Caribbean sea and South Atlantic ocean. They shipped as apprentice seamen.

Enlistments in the navy are now extended to two, three or four years. Each recruiting district in the country has been assigned a certain ship in the U. S. navy to be supplied with recruits. The Cleveland district has been assigned the South Carolina, Officer Small said Saturday.

Akron — Representative Davey is authority for the statement that the resignation of A. A rumor is afloat in Akron that a certain employee of the postoffice burned second class mail and then "tipped off" Washington, placing the blame on Read. A representative of the department is in Akron in an attempt to "get at the facts."

POINTING UP FOR HARD GAME

Ohio State Mentor Putting Charges Through Their Tricks.

MEN ARE IN GOOD SHAPE

Next Game Will Be Real Test of State's Ability.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13.—Ohio State is pointing for Michigan. Followers of the Scarlet and Gray make no secret of the fact that the Columbus team is bounding every energy with that end in view for October 25 when the 1916 and 1917 Big Ten champions go to Ann Arbor to try conclusions with Hurry Yost's crew for the sixteenth time.

Dr. Wilce's men have a heavy score to settle with the Wolverines and the slogan "Beat Michigan" is writ large in the daily thoughts of every undergraduate and alumnus. Ohio Staters feel in their bones they have a better chance to emerge from the Michigan game with the large end of the score than they ever had before.

In the day's when the local varsity was a football weakling the Ann Arbor eleven jolled up a huge score almost at will on the Columbus players in the annual game. But now that the Buckeyes have doffed their swaddling clothes, times have changed—and thereby hangs this tale.

Of the sixteen games between the two teams and despite the intense rivalry naturally existing between the two, Michigan has won 13 and tied 2. Of the 13 defeats Ohio State has suffered, 11 have been shutouts. In

CITY HOSPITAL MAY BE GIVEN ARMY SUPPLIES

Lake Division of Red Cross Is Making Distribution.

REQUISITION FORWARDED Supplies Intended for War Purposes Sent to Needy Institutions.

The East Liverpool City hospital may receive a part of the surplus hospital supplies being sent out to hospitals in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky from the Red Cross warehouse at lake division headquarters in Cleveland, it was announced Monday. Miss Lois Pattison, superintendent of the local institution, filed out a requisition for a quantity of gauze, a gauze cutter and other supplies a few weeks ago at the request of Red Cross officials. Requisition blanks seeking a line on hospital requirements in the lake division were sent out to all hospitals in the district.

Two hundred and fifty packing cases filled with hospital supplies including pneumonia jackets, absorbent pads, gauze compresses, bandages, night gowns, pajamas and baby clothes were sent out this week from the lake division warehouse. This work is a part of the co-operation of the Red Cross with the American Hospital association.

At the request of the hospital association the Red Cross is distributing supplies intended for war purposes among needy hospitals in the United States.

At the lake division Red Cross warehouse there are sufficient supplies to fill 3,000 more cases. These will be distributed as orders are received from the American Hospital association. It is one way the Red Cross is adjusting its war-time organization to peace-time needs.

BRYAN GREETED BY LARGE CROWD

Former Cabinet Members Deliver Address Here Sunday Afternoon In Campaign to "Keep Ohio Dry."

Mr. Bryan's visit here was part of his whirlwind two-day tour of Columbiana county. He was met at the Y. and O. station Sunday morning at 10 o'clock by S. P. Ankrim, city, county manager of the Columbiana County Dry Maintenance league, and taken to Wellsville where he addressed a big mass meeting in the First Methodist Episcopal church.

Following his Wellsville address the Commoner was returned to this city where he lunched at the residence of Dr. G. P. Ikert, West Sixth street, a former colleague. The mass meeting in the local church began shortly before 2 o'clock with a song service. Dr. H. H. Russell, Westerville, father of the Anti-Saloon league, made a brief preliminary address and was followed by Mr. Bryan. John Scott, city chairman of the East Liverpool Dry Federation, presided at the meeting.

Mr. Bryan's party left here on the 3:10 o'clock Y. and O. car for Lisbon, where he addressed an overflow meeting at 4:30 o'clock in the Lisbon opera house. The Lisbon meeting was the last conducted by Mr. Bryan in Columbiana county. He left after his Lisbon address for Alliance where he was scheduled to speak at 8 p. m.

Col. Dan Morgan Smith, of Chicago, the next prominent speaker on the calendar of East Liverpool dries, will speak here October 27th County Manager S. P. Ankrim was advised by telegram Monday. The place for holding the meeting and the exact time of Col. Smith's coming have not been definitely arranged, Mr. Ankrim said. Col. Smith, a noted Chicago attorney, gained fame during the world war as commander of the famous "Battalion of Death."
